Sears makes memories with Martha and Moe en route to 2011 world title

By Ted Harbin

For anyone who has ever been in the heated battle of competition, the pressure to win is incredible. To be successful, to win, is like bursting that bubble and feeling the air explode from it.

For the 15 cowgirls in the field of the 2011 Wrangler National Finals Rodeo, the golden yellow chutes and blue fencing intensifies the pressure. The heat turns up as each lady prepared to take a shot at $17,885 each night and a chance to fasten a Montana Silversmiths gold buckle at the end of the 10-day marathon.

Nobody, however, realized how much pressure was on a tiny blonde from Nanton, Alberta, the only Canadian in the field of 119 contestants in ProRodeo's grand championship event, held in the Thomas & Mack Center on the campus of the University of Nevada-Las Vegas.

As she sprinted around the arena each night during the grand entry, Lindsay Sears was carrying the weight of a nation fanatical about rodeo, about champions. Donning the gold buckle earned three years prior, the 30-year-old cowgirl who spends a good portion of her time near Lubbock, Texas, knew much was expected of her.

But there's so much more to the back story of a world champion. You see, Sears left Las Vegas in December 2010 with an injured horse and a ton of questions. Sugar Moon Express, an 11-year-old sorrel by Dr. Nick Bar out of Babys Blue Jeans, has been Sears' driving force since she purchased the mare nearly six years ago.

"We left here last year with my good horse, Martha, being seriously injured and not knowing whether or not she would

Lindsay Sears of Nanton, Alberta, was the only Canadian competing at the 2011 Wrangler NFR but she didn't disappoint the Maple Leaf fans returning with a gold buckle. Sears admits this year's journey to the world title was a struggle but as a result made the win that much sweeter. Sears used her backup horse Moe for most of the year while Martha was sidelined, but once Martha returned it was full speed ahead and in the end they were able to say – Mission Accomplished. WPR photo by Mike Copeman come back and be able to compete," Sears said. "I just have to thank all the people who have helped Martha get better throughout the year, all my veterinarians.

Martha also is the reason Sears dominated the NFR. The tandem won the average, rounding the cloverleaf pattern 10 times in a cumulative 139.50 seconds, earning $45,865 for that feat alone.

In addition, they placed in eight go-rounds, including two wins – she shared the opening-round victory with front-runner Brittany Pozzi of Victoria, Texas, clocking in at 14.03 seconds; they each won $16,010 and made a statement about the race for the world title. Sears also won the seventh round, posting a 13.56 to win the go-round buckle outright.

"There is no game plan," Sears said on opening night, Dec. 1. "Every night is a new night. It's great. It makes for our sport to be great watching."

It was great watching, with high speeds and fantastic finishes. Whether the rounds were defined by a mere 1-100ths of a second or watching Carlee Pierce and Rare Dillion clear the pattern in a new record 13.46, the 2011 Wrangler NFR was a showcase of tremendous athletic talent.

"You've just got to know your horse and know what it takes to get it accomplished," said Lisa Lockhart of Oelrichs, S.D., who won two rounds and finished fourth in the final world standings with $159,710, with about $79,000 coming at the NFR.

That has worked for Sears, who has had some incredible wins on her main mount, including four straight championships at the tour finale in Omaha, Neb. – 2011 marked the first time in five years she and Martha didn't leave Nebraska with the title.

"You are as good as your horse is in barrel racing," said Sears, who spent much of the year on another horse, Ima Guy Of Honor, an 8-year-old bay gelding she calls Moe. "We're like peas and carrots. Martha

When Lindsay Sears left the Wrangler NFR in 2010 she wasn't sure she would ever be able to run Martha again after suffering a major injury. Thanks to Martha's veterinarians she was nursed back to health and shared the opening round with Brittany Pozzi in a time of 14.03 seconds en route to the duos second world title. WPR Photo by Mike Copeman is the one for me. If I wasn't going to get to get on her again, I'm not sure if I wanted to continue doing this for a living.

So is their run through the finals. After their seventh round win, Sears admitted she was a little shocked at how fast the two clocked.

"Martha's been kind of easing along all week, and I was wondering when she was going to realize we're in Vegas," Sears said Wednesday, Dec. 7. "She did tonight, thank goodness.

"She stepped up to the plate tonight, and she felt like Martha. She felt like she's always felt in this pen."

It was important to make a statement at that point in the championship while remaining consistently fast.

"When you only have a 10th of a second between first and sixth, and some nights five-100ths, how do you even talk about that," she said. "It's just a blink of an eye

... less than the blink of an eye."

This season marked the sixth time in Sears' career she's played for the biggest prize money in the game, and she likes to ride in Las Vegas. She may not play the table games or punch the slots, but she understands how things work. Early in 2011, she didn't like her odds of winning that prestigious gold buckle, but she knows how to cash out money ahead.

Sears understands what it means to live up to the pressure of the Wrangler National Finals Rodeo and work through a season of limitations by one of the world's greatest racehorses. Her 10th-round run of 13.75, worth second place that night, is proof.

"I don't have safetying-up in my vocabulary, and neither does Martha," she said that Saturday, Dec. 10. "I wouldn't have been satisfied any other way."

Sears realizes what it means to handle the expectations of a nation. She knows

Between 1976 and 1978, the method of choosing the World Champion Barrel Racer was changed to coincide with the method used by the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association. The 15 barrel racers with the top earnings during the regular season qualified for the National Finals Rodeo, then held in Oklahoma City. The barrel racer who won the most money at the NFR alone was named the world champion. During the years this system was in use, the NFR champion was always different from the high money winner for the year.
Before 1976 and since 1979, the world champion has been determined by total season earnings, including both regular-season and NFR earnings.
